

WE NOMINATE

William Jack Baumol and William Gordon Bowen, two of this country's best-known economists, who have focussed new attention on the precarious financial state of the performing arts in the United States. It is their carefully documented conclusion in their just published, three-year Twentieth Century Fund study, "Performing Arts - The Economic Dilemma," that in this technological age live theater, opera, music and dance are not and cannot become self-supporting, and recognition of this fact is essential if Americans are to sustain a vibrant cultural life.

After studying 30,000 nationwide audience questionnaires and analyzing scores of company records, the two teacher-scholars report that in the professional performing arts, excluding the commercial theater, the annual "income gap," which must be met by contributions, now amounts to between $20 and $23 million. Projecting the "gap" to 1975 they estimate that, by 1975, professional arts organizations will have to raise $60 million in contributions if they are to cover the difference between their operating costs and revenues and also warn that the long-run outlook even for the Broadway theater as it is currently organized seems grim, unless new procedures are devised for its support.

A central thesis of the study is that the problems plaguing the arts are rooted in the nature of their technology. "For the economy as a whole productivity (output per man-hour) has risen at a remarkably steady rate of roughly 2 1/2 per cent per year over the last half-century, and there is every reason to expect that the discovery of new knowledge and the invention of new techniques of production and capital accumulation will yield comparable increases in the future. But the technology of live performance leaves little room for labor-saving innovations . . . no one has yet succeeded in decreasing the human effort expended at a live performance of a 45-minute Schubert quartet."

The 44-year old Baumol, a member of the Princeton University Faculty since 1949 and a full professor at age 32, has for three decades combined his studies and writing in the fields of economics and mathematics with his deeply rooted interests in art. Now playing a major role in Princeton's Creative Arts Program, with a studio in the "Old Nassau Street School," Baumol as a member of the Class of 1942 at C.C.N.Y. "majored" in economics and "minored" in art and during and after World War II, while in Europe with the Army and while studying and teaching at the London School of Economics, devoted every possible moment to his painting and sculpturing.

Formerly Director of the Graduate Program in the Woodrow Wilson School, Bowen, a 33-year old native of Cincinnati, Ohio, who was advanced to the rank of professor a year ago, is Provost Designate of the University, an appointment effective next July with the retirement of James Douglas Brown. On leave this year as an Honorary McCosh Faculty Fellow, one of the highest distinctions the University can confer upon a staff member, Bowen received his A.B. from Denison University in 1955 and his doctoral degree from Princeton in 1958, the year he was appointed to the Faculty as an Assistant Professor.

For giving the American people new insights into the previously unexamined economic status of the performing arts; for placing the greatly exaggerated "cultural boom" in a realistic perspective; for assembling and interpreting a vast body of new facts and figures on the social and economic composition of American audiences; they are our nominees as

THE TIGER'S TRAINER: Dick Colman has directed Princeton football teams to a record of 31 victories and 5 defeats in past four seasons, one of the highest winning percentages in the nation.

This Is Princeton

Harvard's long football history. Besten in the first 37 minutes of the Yale game by a team that was as high against them as they had been against Harvard, the Tigers still had the strength left for the knockout blow that sent Stupski pell-mell into the end zone. Thereafter, they twice had to take the ball away from the Elis to run out the clock.

It was the same story against Cornell, whose 228-lb. defensive line made running a drawn out, uphill job for the title-hungry Tigers. For the third Saturday in a row, they had an adequate supply of adrenalin and ability deep into the last quarter to win over a highly-regarded foe.

Colman's Final Job. In the decade since he has been head coach at Princeton, none of the three previous first-place finishes that Dick Colman has achieved ranks on a par with what he has accomplished in 1966. Even his young, run-building team remained injury-free, man for man he could not come close to matching the material that reported for practice on September 1 at Cambridge and at Hanover. Coach John Yovietis's Harvard team was first in the Ivy League in defense, nationally ranked in least points allowed and in yards gained rushing. Coach Bob Blackman's Dartmouth team, leading the Ivies in offense by a huge margin, was also nationally ranked in this department. Both Harvard and Dartmouth set college and Ivy records as the season progressed.

In contrast, Princeton was fourth in defense and seventh in offense in Ivy statistics, failed to set a single record in either the college or the Ivy level, and yet shared the team championship with a 6-2 record that spoke volumes for the intangibles that Colman and his staff provided.

In the past four seasons, the Tigers have compiled respective records of 7-2, 9-0, 8-1 and 7-2, winning first place alone once, sharing it twice and finishing second in 1965. They remain the only major college team playing single wing football, but the system is undergoing a sufficient revival at the high school level so that an increasing number of players are enjoying here with single wing experience.

At Saturday's post-game press conference in Caldwell Field House, Colman was asked how he felt about next year. "It's a long ways off," he said. "We know virtually nothing about the freshmen, we don't know who may decide to give up the sport, we never can be sure who will be with us academically."

Pressed for an answer to the question, "When will you begin planning for next year?" he answered with a king-sized grin: "On Monday morning."

TOPICS Of The Town

WARNING: ICE

Safety Preceded. More signs, more flags, more intense safety indoctrination will be the basis of the Township's proverbial ice-safety program this winter. All during late winter, through spring and into the summer—ever since two young boys were drowned in the canal—the Township engineer, representatives of the Joint Recreation Board, Princeton University and the police have been meeting to form an ice-safety plan.

Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini said Monday night at Township Committee meeting that some groups are reluctant to join in any plan because nothing can guarantee total safety. The Township, for example, doesn't want legal police jurisdiction over Lake Carnegie and the parallel canal because the area is impossibly long to patrol.

Recreation officials are leery of supervised ice activities for the same reason. In fact, the Joint Recreation Board is not eager to sponsor an official ice program of any kind, and is not assuming responsibility for ice safety.

Letters informing property

Lake Carnegie is not geographically within the Borough's jurisdiction. The Township, therefore, will have most of the burden. The plan:

- Eight signs will be erected along the canal stating that canal ice is never safe for skating or walking and that both are prohibited.

- Four additional telephone poles with the red-white ice flag will be set up in key locations, and at least one flag will be visible from any point on the lake.

- Two skating areas will be marked by poles and red plastic flags (no rope "fences") every 100 feet.

- The Winter Sports Program supervisor will continue to test the ice and announce his findings on radio and to parents and children who live in the University's lakeside apartments. The two boys who drowned last winter lived in those apartments.

"School age children should not be allowed to go down to the lake alone to skate," stated Committeewoman William L. Wilson, "Lake Carnegie isn't a baby-sitter."

"We on Committee will continue to talk over this problem," assured Mayor Carl C. Schafer. "It's a co-operative matter—with parents, children, schools and the Township."

owners of their Clemminshaw re-valuation will go out this week-end to residents of the eastern part of the municipality.

"Your taxes won't necessarily be higher just because your valuation is higher," said Committeeman Burton Peskin. "It's a question of the relation of your property to the whole level of values."

In response to a question from William Cherry, 24 Dempsey Avenue, Township attorney Gordon Griffin said that the result of the police salary referendum was binding upon Committee.

Robert F. Mooney have been asked by Mayor Henry S. Patterson and Council, to look over the whole parking area to speak, and come up with suggestions.

Mayor Patterson warned, in announcing the survey, that the 30 hour may, on the way of the 50 cup of coffee, and that ladies who park on Riverside Drive or Cedar Lane and take the bus to New York for a whole day of shopping may find themselves with a long wait ahead.

The all-day parking question depends on where you sit. Mayor Patterson observed, "Some people tell him there aren't enough all-day spaces, some people say there are too many."

Anybody with ideas should communicate them to Messrs. McCrohan, Clevley or Mooney. Everyone knows for a final report by February.

nesday's court will be in the evening, but it may be changed later to afternoon. Mayor Henry S. Patterson announced the new schedule this week. It is hoped the plan will shorten court sessions. Court has sometimes lasted until 1 a.m.

WHITE MEAT OR DARK?

It's Up to Me. The turkey Princeton's Thanksgiving table this year will cost about four cents a pound less than it did a year ago, but through a surprising supply-demand twist, about eight cents less than it did ten years ago.

Princeton supermarkets this year are selling the big 18-pounders for about 35c a pound. A year ago, in that size range, they were 31c and five years ago, only 29c.

But when you bought your 1955 turkey, you paid 43c a pound for one of those big ones, and a whopping 47c for the little 8-9-pounders.

It's a matter of supply, demand and the increasing expertise of poultry growers who know more and more about breeding more and more turkeys.

Your porterhouse steak in that same year of 1955 was a lean 87c a pound, compared to the $1.19 to $1.23 a pound you pay today.

At one Princeton supermarket this Thanksgiving, a canned ham weighing three pounds is $2.79, 16c more than the $2.65 it cost last year.

Cranberry sauce doesn't mean much, except on the plate, the same market that sold a 16-ounce can for 19c a year ago is selling a 15-ounce can for 19c today! Ten years ago, you could buy two 15-ounce cans for 37c.

If you're dining out this Thanksgiving, your check will be precisely the same amount as last year's in at least one restaurant: $5 for turkey and trimmings a la mode. Five years ago, at the same restaurant, the turkey price was $4.50.

This menu used to have a $6.95 Thanksgiving too. That was filet mignon, beef in 1961. Today, (and last year, too), the price is still $6.95. But it's sirloin.

APPEAL LAUNCHED

Hospital Seeks $75,000. Princeton Hospital has launched a Capital Fund Appeal in hope of raising $75,000 to purchase new equipment and to finance its debts. The hospital plans to make the appeal an annual one.

The fund will be used to finance the hospital's building bank loan of $1,450,000. With this loan and an additional $2,976,000 in gifts, the hospital is currently constructing a new patient care wing.

Frank E. Taplin, hospital trustee and chairman of the resources committee, emphasized that funds raised through the Appeal will not be used for indigent patient care or other services financed by United Fund contributions.

The new campaign has been approved by the United Fund. "While the building fund campaign has ended," Mr. Taplin explained, "the need for capital funds to purchase essential equipment and to amortize the loan continues."

 In and year out we look to the Annual Capital Fund Appeal to supply these resources and expect it to regularize the hospital's request for financial support.

Mrs. Catherine W. Freuler, director of the hospital's development fund office at 35 Henry Avenue, is supervising the Appeal. Friends and clients wishing further information should call her at 921-7700.

Those who live outside Princeton Borough and the Township may obtain information from Mrs. Thomas Bathwell, Kendall Park, Gustave Christie, Hightstown; Joseph Pierson, Hopewell; Mrs. Robert L. were on the scene. Sgt. Arthur Gallant and Ptl. Russell Shingle, John Bellow and Allen Benkert searched the area for more than an hour. Chief Pester J. McCrehan said it was not known how the robber, who left the office on foot, made his escape.

Mr. Dorsey told police the intruder ordered him to lie on the floor and not move or he would be shot. "After the thief emptied a cash drawer and a petty cash box," Mr. Dorsey continued, "he warned me not to call the police and left."

Martin Liples, manager of the office, was notified of the theft by the police who said he is in the process of determining the value of travelers' checks taken. The theft is still under investigation, Chief McCrehan said.

The armed robbery was the first in the Borough since November 24, 1964, when two men wearing ski masks held up the Nassau Inn office early in the morning. About $400 was taken in that theft.

Over Wave to Girls. A wave from University students to girls in a passing car allegedly led to a fight in front of Renwick's Restaurant early Saturday morning between town and gown.

Borough police received a call at 12:37 a.m. reporting that a group of teenagers and 10 to 12 University students were fighting in front of Renwick's, 50 Nassau Street. By the time police arrived, the fight had stopped.

A 17-year-old youth from Plainsboro was arrested and taken to Mercer County Jail and held overnight. He was released the next evening in the custody of his parents. According to police, the youth was offensive and refused to cooperate with them. He added he used loud and abusive language and refused to accompany them for questioning. He will appear later before juvenile judge J. Wilson Neden, Chief Peter J. McCrohan said.

In addition, police took the names of three students, all from Holder Hall, who were suspected of being involved after warning them, they sent them on their way.

As placed together by the police, the fight started when three students, walking into Renwick's, moved to several girls passing by in a car. This was resented by the "visitors" from surrounding areas, whom Chief McCrohan labeled "habitual loiterers at Renwick's," a fight ensued.

KINGSTON BRIDGE AGAIN

Four Persons Injured. Four persons from outside the Princeton area were injured at 8:30 Saturday evening when two cars collided on the Princeton-Kingston Bridge. Both cars, a 1965 station wagon and a 1965 sedan, were total losses.

Most seriously injured was Mrs. Stella Anderson, 35, Valley Stream, L.I., a passenger in a car driven by her husband, James, also 35. She received head lacerations and was admitted to Princeton Hospital with a concussion. Her husband was released after being treated for lacerations of the head and right arm.

The second driver was Kenneth Disbrow, 66, of Woodfield. He and his passenger, Hamilton Disbrow, 16, were treated for head lacerations. All four were taken to Princeton Hospital by units of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad.

Mr. Disbrow, driving toward Kingston on Route 27, told police that as he rounded the sharp approach turn to the bridge, he was unable to stop from hitting the Anderson car. The investigation at the scene by Township police revealed that his car had first hit the north wall of the bridge and was in the wrong lane at the time of the collision. He was charged with careless driving by Ptl. Anthony Gaylord.

HOME IS ENTERED

Liquor Taken. The door from the garage into the home of Murray L. Deutsch, 77 Lenbrook Lane, was forced open between 4 and 5 Friday afternoon by someone who then stole three bottles of liquor from a kitchen cabinet.

Township police report finding kitchen cabinet doors open and a kitchen door unlocked. The owner reported the door had been locked that morning. Lt. Richard Steiner investigated.

DR. REEVE GOES HOME
Leaves Princeton Hospital, New Jersey's oldest doctor, 101-year old Dr. Malvern Reeve of Rock Hill, Md. has gone home for Thanksgiving after two months of treatment for a kidney malformation at Princeton Hospital.
From 1922 until his retirement in 1957, Dr. Reeve delivered some 3,000 babies in the Rocky-Hill-Princeton area. Many of them visited him on his birthday last summer when Rocky Hill renamed a street in his honor. Since Dr. Reeve will be home in time for Thanksgiving, his physician, Dr. Stanley E. Rosenberg, also of Rocky Hill, ordered a turkey to be delivered to him as a gift of the hospital staff.

The retired physician will continue as a patient of Princeton Hospital's Home Care Program, instituted in July. Dr. Reeve lives with his close friends, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thompson.

He will receive regular visits, not only from his doctor and the nurses from the Visiting Nurse Association, but also from members of the hospital staff who will supply the institutions professional services. He will have the assistance, as well as the Princeton Homekeeper Service.

ZONERS SAY 'YES'

To Computer Building. The Borough Zoning Board voted unanimously Monday to approve a series of requests by Princeton University that will enable it to go ahead with plans to construct a 4-story computer building in a landlocked area to the rear of the Alumni Council Building, 91 Prospect Avenue. Among the requests made by attorney Frank P. Heiche, representing the University, were two frontage variances, a special permit to construct a building devoted exclusively for use by a non-profit organization in a residential zone and several interpretations of the zoning laws.

Access to the building would be from Prospect Avenue and would include an 18-foot wide vehicular drive on the east side of the Alumni building and a pedestrian approach on the west side. A limited service route to the rear would be used to deliver supplies to the center which would be in use 24 hours a day.

In addition to the four stories, plans call for an underground cellar housing machinery which would extend to within 20 feet of the rear property line of the Alumni building. The building would provide computer needs for the University's engineering quadrangle, chemistry and physics departments and the like. It would employ approximately 45 persons.

David Hazzen, associate dean of faculty, reported that the costs of such computer services had grown from 7 million to 14 million and would reach $1.8 million next year. If the University obtains the funds
it needs to erect the building,
it plans to start construction
in April.

Parking Variance. The Board also granted, unanimously, a parking variance to Salus J. Davidson, owner of Princeton Stationers, 86 Nassau Street. In so doing it al-

The sunroof works even when there isn't any sun.

When you slide back the sunroof on a Volkswagen Station Wagon, the sky's the limit.

That's because odd-shaped loads you'd have trouble fitting into an ordinary station wagon can stick up out of a VW like a tree. Or a refrigerator.
In fact, you never know what might pop up.

And even when the sunroof's closed, the Volkswagen still gives you almost twice as much space
as other wagons.

And a 4' by 4' door that lets you get right at all the room inside. (You don't have to be an engineer to move big, bulky loads in and out.)

And whenever you don't want to put big things inside your VW, you can use it for big people instead. It seats 9 of them and holds 13 pieces of luggage. All at once.

Other wagons only hold about half as much as a VW. Even if you hit the ceiling.

But after the VW's all filled up, you can still go through the roof.

Durbin's Views Deplored.

To the Editor of Town Topics: I found Enoch Durbin's views on the war in Viet Nam offensive.

Doubtless, it is gratifying to Dr. Durbin to actually see in operation the fruits of his research. Watching a battle from a helicopter may be "like being in the loge of a theater."

From the ground it may be a bit grimmer. It is this aspect of the war that too many of us ignore. American casualties are quickly transported to modern base hospitals. What happens to the civilian casualties (which some estimate outnumber the military ones as much as 36 to 1) is a different story.

The few civilian hospitals according to a report sponsored by the Swiss relief group "Terre des Hommes," are mostly "chapel houses," are mostly "lucky" that many civilians can die in the familiar surroundings of their own villages. That is, if there are not in the ranks of Viet Nam thousands of refugees. Therefore, it seems to me that any military solution of the problems of Viet Nam by the technology of which Dr. Durbin speaks so glowingly will be directly at the cost of the trust of the people.

That there can be such a military solution in the second place seems doubtful. Dr. Durbin's characterization of the war as a "Holy Crusade" may be more apt than he realizes.

The crusaders were not notably successful in establishing Christianity in Palestine. Our efforts to establish democracy in South Viet Nam may bear even less fruit for some of the same reasons. The Crusader, I am sure, is long and the number of men we are willing to commit (fortunately) too small. Our forces here have already been over-extended.

Dr. Durbin talks enthusiastically about the bad effect on enemy morale of "firing thousands of rounds of ammunition at one man." In a way, this epitomizes our whole posture in Viet Nam.

To our Secretary of Defense, if may prove that he is tougher than his critics. To me, it seems a deplorable waste of human and material resources. BARBARA BAUM (Mrs. Paul F. Baum) 119 Jefferson Road

Durbin is "Brainwashed."

To the Editor of Town Topics: According to recent statements in the local press, attributed to Mr. Enoch Durbin of the Department of Aerospace and Mechanical Sciences at Princeton University (who recently returned from a Defense Department sponsored trip to South Viet Nam) our country is involved in a "Holy War" in Viet Nam. Other statements attributed to Mr. Durbin indicate that he is greatly enamored of the military and their invincibility in all matters—economic, political, as well as higher education.

Mr. Durbin's statements, if correctly reported in the press, dramatically reveal his naivete in matters concerning the war in Viet Nam and further reveal how efficient and effective the brainwashing of many academics has become. The infiltration of the military into the fiber of our nation (especially universities) should be a major concern to all our citizens—especially our thinking, analytical and academic citizens. But obviously this is not, as yet, a main concern of our intellectual population.

Mr. Durbin was quoted as saying: "I am strongly opposed to communism in Viet Nam because the communists are trying to impose themselves by terror. And that's what makes it a Holy War. . . . If this were a genuine ground swell from the Vietnamese people — it would be quite different." "And I am convinced we are winning — quite clearly . . ."

If we are winning so decisively, why is it that military experts in the Pentagon have recently reported to the press that the war can go on for at least 20 years with our present troop levels and if we increase the number of troops in Viet Nam to two million men we might be able to win (whatever that means) in possibly five years!

There is a growing number of citizens in this country who serve this country in World War II who learned not to accept the concept of the invincibility and total purity of political and military establishments. The war in Viet Nam is not a "Holy War" — nor is any war. The war in Viet Nam is a brutal war of attrition. It is a suicidal war — where for every Viet Cong killed six to seven innocent Vietnamese civilians have been slaughtered — till in the name of freedom and human dignity.

The Viet Nam war and the war psychology it is generating is diverting our nation from the ideals it was founded upon. It is a war which continues to brutalize and erode our society because there are so many persons in our society — intellectual and non-intellectual who are accepting the brutality of this war as an accepted way of life — and in the process themselves become brutalized.

What our country needs is fewer defense department crusaders and more thinking people who will stop the death and destruction that we are raining down upon our human beings in their under-developed country. What we need are more people doing work and research in developing "tools" which will eliminate war from the face of this earth!

lowered Mr. Davidson to convert the rear 400 square feet of his store into a take-out restaurant facility. Of this, 300 square feet would be devoted to equipment and counter space and the remaining 100 to pavilion use.

The attorney for Mr. Davidson, Sydney Souter, pointed out to the board that the zoning requirement of one parking place for every 200 feet translated into four spaces for this property but they had never been provided and the building was non-conforming.

"If the variance were granted, we would still end up with the need for four spaces and a non-conforming use," Mr. Souter continued. "Frankly, I don't even know why I am here and I don't mess that frequently."

John P. Woodbridge, 33 Springdale Road, south permission to convert two small rooms over an attached garage into office space for use in his insurance business. The two rooms measure less than 4½ of the total floor area of his home.

Two neighbors and William Detmar, president of the Walker Home Insurance Agency, were called as witnesses by Mr. Woodbridge's attorney, Seymour Montgomery, and testified in his behalf.

Mr. Woodbridge, who has been in the insurance field for 40 years, maintains an office in Trenton, but he told the board he has been advised to give up committing on the advice of his doctor.

The board voted his application be forwarded to the Mayor and Council with a favorable recommendation.

GO, GO, CITGO

Signs Denied. The Citgo Service Station in the Princeton Shopping Center ran out of gas Thursday night when the Township Zoning Board said the station may not erect a couple of over-size silhouette "CITGO" signs.

The Board, unanimously, pointed out that the sign measured 14 x 3 feet, or 42 square feet. The ordinance specifies a maximum of 38 square feet.

In addition, the aggregate area cannot be more than 68 square feet, and the two CITGO signs would have totaled 84. Not only that, Township Zoning rules prohibit illuminated signs, anyway.

In other action, the Board gave Hunt and Augustine permission to build on two lots which are under the required two-acre size for the area. The lots are in the Winfield development just off The Great Road.

"a little child
shall lead them"

How can a child learn to find his place in the world, and make it a better place to live? We would answer, by having the great treasures of the Bible opened up to him, and learning its lessons of love and spiritual power. That's what goes on every Sunday at the Christian Science Sunday School.

BUSINESS In Princeton

ANNEX CHANGES HANDS

Brothers New Orleans. The management and ownership of the Annex Grill has passed from Michael Carnevale and John Giannino to brothers Henry and Louis Carnevale of Harris Road.

Michael Carnevale, however, will continue for a while as manager of the restaurant, which has been a part of the Nassau Street scene for the past 16 years. The new owners expect a smooth transition. The principal change foreseen is the modernization of kitchen.

Henry Carnevale has worked as cook and occasional bartender at the Annex for the past six years. He previously served as cook at the Princeton Inn. Louis Carnevale is an electronics technician, who formerly worked at the University's Forestral Research Center.

BANK NAMES WHITCOMB

As Vice-President, Stephen Whitcomb has been elected a director of Princeton Bank and Trust Company's Trust Division.

Mr. Whitcomb was formerly vice-president of an investment advisory firm of Eaton and Howard of Boston. While in Boston, he was active in community affairs, primarily charities.

A 1936 graduate of Princeton University, Mr. Whitcomb studied at Harvard Business School and served in the Navy during World War II. He and his wife now reside at 90 Cleveland Lane.

Qualification For Voting Membership In The Princeton Hospital Corporation

Notice is hereby given of the requirements for voting membership in the Princeton Hospital Corporation in accordance with the By-laws of Princeton Hospital as amended at the annual meeting of the Corporation held on February 25, 1963.

ARTICLE II

VOTING MEMBERSHIP

1. The annual payment by any person of not less than $5.00 directly to the Princeton Hospital Membership Fund during the calendar year preceding the annual election, shall entitle such person to make nominations for the office of Trustee, to one vote for each vacancy in the Board of Trustees which may be filled at any annual meeting, and to vote upon other business which may come before any annual or special meeting of the Corporation during the calendar year of the annual election.

2. The payment by any person of $100.00 or more directly to the Princeton Hospital Membership Fund shall entitle such person to life membership in the Corporation and to all other privileges of voting membership without further payment.

3. Notices relative to the membership requirements of the Corporation shall be mailed to all members on or before November 1 of each year.

4. There is no age limitation on membership. In order to be eligible to vote, however, all members, whether annual members of life members, must be at least 21 years of age.

This notice is not a solicitation but is published to inform the public of qualifications for voting membership in the Corporation.

By order of the Board of Trustees of Princeton Hospital

Stephen Whitcomb

president of Edmund Cook and Co. Realtors, is attending the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards at Miami Beach.

After leaving Miami, Mr. Edmund Cook and his wife plan to attend the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers in Miami. He is a past president of the New Jersey chapter of the Institute and now serves on the international board of governors of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers.

MUSIC In Princeton

A BRILLIANT EVENING in McCarter Monday, 11, isn't often that one hears two equally great artists in a duo recital, yet that is what the ever-famous Series II audience witnessed on Monday in McCarter Theatre when they were treated to the artistry of Robert Casadesu at the piano and Zino Francescatti on violin. Their program included four Sonatas: Bach's Sonata in A Major (BWV 1038), the "Kreutzer" Sonata of Beethoven, Debussy's Sonata in G Minor and the Sonata in A, Op. 15 by Faure.

Such artistry is difficult to define. Not once did this reviewer have a not-a-note-better, hurried tempo, crude attacks or poor intonation.

The interpretations of the varied program by these two great gentlemen were examples of extraordinary musical compatibility. Each understood the total value of the music while displaying a keen awareness for details regarding the form and harmonic structure.

Technically, the performances were flawless. Who but Casadesu can manipulate double octave runs at such fantastic speeds yet with such unerring clarity and musicianship?

The high point of the program was unquestionably the final movement of "Kreutzer" Sonata. Here the two artists created a beautiful, expressive world of sound, rhythm and tone color. Each virtuoso shows the uncanny inventiveness of Beethoven's genius and only artists of this magnitude can explore the sublimity of every moment while shaping the whole of the piece into a memorable experience.

The Debussy Sonata is an old Francescatti staple and he played the music with a broad sweeping tone which appeared less evident in the Bach and Beethoven Sonatas.

The concluding work by Faure, a work of less importance than those preceding it, was demonstrated that a great performance can resurrect even a quasi "period piece" of this genre and make it work. As an encore, the artists performed the Finale from Beethoven's Sonata in G Major. This joyful, sprightly work climaxed a brilliant evening of impeccable music-making.

Service For Patients

Chaplain C. George Fitzgerald will conduct a Thanksgiving Day worship service at 10 a.m. in the Lambert House conference rooms at Princeton Hospital for ambulatory patients and hospital personnel. The Women's Auxiliary will assist the patients.

The chaplaincy program, begun several years ago through the leadership of the Rev. Donald M. Meisel of First Presbyterian Church in the city, Dr. Robert R. Spears of Trinity Episcopal Church, now has the support of 22 churches, ranging from Juneburg, Kendall Park, Princeton, Hightstown, Pennington, Hopewell, Cranbury, Lawrenceville, Belle Mead, Rocky Hill and Dutch Neck. Princeton Hospital, where there was a chapel when the new building is completed.

News Of The CHURCHES

PLAN UNITED WORSHIP
On Thanksgiving Day, Community worship services will be held on Thanksgiving Day in Princeton. West Windsor Township and Hopewell, there will also be worship services at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Methodist Lutheran, Princeton and, for the first, at Trinity Lutheran Church in Trenton.

The Princeton Pastor's Association is sponsor of the 11 a.m. service in Princeton University Chapel. The offering, in past years, will be used to support the chaplaincy at Princeton Hospital.

The Rev. Luther Kriedel of Lutheran Church of the Messiah and president of the pastors, will give the sermon. Participants include the Rev. Harry L. Lauer, vicar of All Saints Episcopal Chapel, reading from the Old Testament; the Rev. C. P. Phipps, AME Hospital chaplain, New Testament verses; the Rev. Marion Stokely of Mt. Pleasant AME Church, President Johnson's Thanksgiving Proclamation; and Dean Ernest Gordon, who will assist in leading the worship.

The West Windsor community service is scheduled for 10 a.m. at First Presbyterian Church, Dutch Neck. The Rev. John C. Pfisterer, pastor of the newly-formed Prince of Peace

Lutheran Mission will give the sermon. The Rev. Walter P. Carvin of Princeton Baptist Church, James Neck, and the Rev. Penn S. Weaver of Dutch Neck Presbyterian will also participate.

In Hopewell, the Council of Churches is sponsor of the 9 a.m. community worship service to be held in the Presbyterian Church, Hopewell. F. Hatch of Calvary Baptist Church, Hopewell, is preacher. His topic is "Thanksgiving." All Protestant churches will take part.

The relationship between prayer and Thanksgiving will be stressed at the 11 a.m. service at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 16 Bayard Lane. A period will be set aside for testimonies of thanks from individuals in the congregation. The Golden Text from Colossians and responsive reading from the Psalms will set the theme: "Continue in prayer, and watch in the same way, because you do not know the day or the hour... pay thy vows unto the most High."

The Lutheran Church of the Messiah will hold a worship service at 10 a.m.

The Rev. William C. Aiello, pastor of Trinity Deaf Church, will lead a signed and spoken service of thanksgiving at 10 a.m. in Trinity Lutheran Church, 109 S. Broad Street, Trenton. Transportation arranged by calling 585-5283.

DR. SPEARS NAMED CANON
Receives Midwest Offer. The Rev. Dr. Robert R. Spears Jr., of Trinity Episcopal Parish, was named a Canon of the Trenton diocese last week by Bishop Alfred L. Bayard.

He was also elected suffragan bishop of the Episcopal church's Western Missouri Diocese, a post he has not yet decided to accept. The two honors came within a few days of each other.

Canon Spears said he did not seek the Missouri post, but was asked if he could be considered. One of five nominees, he won in absentee on the 15th ballot at the convention of the Episcopal Diocese of Western Missouri.

If he accepts his post, he must be approved by two-thirds of the diocese's bishops and parishes. As suffragan, he would assist Bishop Edward R. Healey, with whom he served 16 years ago in the Buffalo, N.Y. parish.

Rector of Trinity for the past six years, Canon Spears served for the six previous years as vicar of the Chapel of Intercession of Trinity Par-

HOSPITAL MISSIONS: Gilbert R. Rowan of Rosedale Road will speak on his summer's work in five Thailand hospitals at this Sunday's 7 p.m. night supper at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. The son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Rowan, and a graduate of The Lawrenceville School and Harvard College, he is now a fourth-year student at the University of Rochester Medical School. His work in Thailand was sponsored by the commission on ecumenical missions and relations of the United Presbyterian Church.

John, New York City, an interracial, inter-cultural church of some 3,500 communicants. He was previously rector of St. Peter's Church, Auburn, N.Y.

A native of Rochester, he is a graduate of Hobart College and General Theological Seminary, New York City. He is chairman of the Trenton Diocese's liturgy committee, an alumni trustee of General Seminary and a past president of the Princeton Pastors' Association.

NEW CHURCH ORGANIZES
in Belle Mead. The Montgomery Methodist Church was officially organized on Friday, began as a mission two months ago, it has 61 members and the Rev. Paul D. Burke as pastor. Coordinating committee chairman is Dr. Baunauk, formerly of Princeton Methodist Church, has scheduled a special worship service at 11:15 this Sunday in the Montgomery township municipal building to mark the church's birth. The Rev. George Watt, southern district superintendent of the Northern New Jersey Conference, will assist the Rev. Mr. Burke in the service.

New Of The Churches

At Friday's meeting in the Holy Mead Church of the First National Bank of Somerset County, charter members elected a board of stewards who in turn named a board of trustees. The congregation plans to buy a church site on Route 206 to complete construction within three years.

BULLETIN NOTES

Men's Breakfast Speaker at First Presbyterian Church this Sunday will be the Rev. Dr. Richard R. Gilbert, department head of radio and television for the United Presbyterian Church. He will discuss the church's communications program, a fore-runner among the national church bodies. The breakfast will be held at 7:45 a.m. in the social room.

Advent Corporate Communion will be held for men and boys at All Saints' Chapel at 7:30 a.m. this Sunday, followed by breakfast.

A workshop on Christmas tree decorations and Christmas card books will be held by the Trinity Teens this Sunday. The teens will be at the Teen's party on December 18 at Knight Cottage at the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute.

Preachers this Sunday include the Rev. John A. Nickles, chaplain of the Canadian Penitentiary Service, who will give the sermon at 11 at Princeton University Chapel, and the Rev. J. Howard Middleton Jr., whose topic at the 11 a.m. service in the Princeton Unitarian Church is "Black Power: The Cry for Manhood."

The Rev. Dr. E. T. Bachman, executive secretary of the theological education board of the Peace Lutheran Church, Princeton Junction, Holy Communion will also be celebrated. Church school at 9:15 and the worship service are held in the Maurice Hawk School, Clarksville Road.

At St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, the young seminarian William Knight who has worked with Princeton teenagers at The Tomb and The Basement for nearly two years will speak at the 10:30 a.m. worship service. A Minister at Princeton Seminary and a graduate of the University of Michigan, his topic is "The Large Is Your Neighborhood."

Organist-Composer Ronald Arnsatt, founder and conductor of the St. Louis Chamber Chorus and Orchestra, will speak at 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. next Monday in the Playhouse at Westminster Choir College.

EXECUTIVES Why do so many FALL APART when it's time to change jobs?

Today, hundreds of executives will decide to look for a new job. The decision will be made voluntarily if they've reached a dead end, or they will be FORCED upon them due to a cost reduction program, automation, reorganization, merger, defense contract, phase-out or any of the above brought in by his nephews. Some will face the problem squarely and calmly; others will be all over the place — mentally, physically or even physically. After all, you have to make these new pay payments each month. Some need new brasses, etc. Better grab the job around that comes along. There are plenty of jobs around. Read the want ads. But stop and think. Is the SAME kind of job in a DIFFERENT company all you really want? Where will you be 5 or 10 years from now? At the next job be just as insecure as the last one.

NO SUCH THING AS SECURITY!

Don't kid yourself. As with your job depends, in any way, on the whims of people, there is no security. About the closest you can come to REAL security is a record of achievements, a knowledge of your God-given capabilities and the techniques of presenting them properly. WHO CAN YOU TURN TO? Should you get an employment agency or a professional Career Consultant? See both. There are several fine employment agencies in the Princeton area who can recommend. Most top-level executive positions $100,000 to $250,000 are NOT filled by this way. They are filled by REFERRALS — by CONTACTS with executives within the company itself.

HERE'S HOW WE CAN HELP YOU

Bernard Haldane Associates is NOT an employment agency. We are Executive Job Consultants — and have been for two decades. We help the busy executive who wants to MOVE UP to analyze his strengths and parlay them into a higher-paying, more satisfying job — regardless of his age or experience — whether he's between jobs or just contemplating a change. We're packaging men, marketing men. But the products we package and market are PEOPLE — men and women who want to make a BETTER team for a change. After we determine which fork in the road you ought to take, career-wise through testing, direct interviews and such techniques as Success Factor Analysis we develop a tailor-made vehicle to present the NEW you in front of the right men in the right companies at the right time. We show you how to negotiate for a top salary and MAXIMUM fringe benefits. And, we help you analyze the job offers that come in — and make the right choice. (Harvard Business Review, Wall Street Journal, Kiplinger's "Changing Times," etc. have reported on the work of Bernard Haldane.) There is no charge (and no obligation) for a confidential, preliminary interview. To arrange one — at your convenience, during or after working hours —

THREE FOR THE MONEY: Yes, three separate dwellings all set within the walls of a fascinating two acre garden right in the very best part of Princeton.
Western Boring. First, the main house with its two big living rooms, glass walled dining room, two sitting rooms each with fireplace and 5 bedrooms and 3 1/2 baths. Then there's the apartment wing (an entirely self-sufficient unit) with its huge mahogany paneled living room, kitchen, two big bedrooms and 1 1/2 baths. And finally, the tenant cottage of living-dining room, 3 bedrooms kitchen and bath. We'll leave all the intriguing possibilities up to your imagination, but come take a look at it with us. Newly on the market and justly expensive. $55,000

A REAL FIRE SALE: Nestled on 1.75 acres at the end of Snowden Lane, there was a charming two bedroom cottage surrounded by tall shade trees, evergreens and dogwoods. Unhappily, 10 days ago, fire changed the picture drastically. The magnificent lot remains unscathed, but only the roof and study masonry walls are left of the house. Fortunately, an architect's plan of the original house is available and a pair of sliding thermopane windows, the long driveway, good well and pump and septic system remain in tact. For the imaginative and adventuresome an interesting possibility at $21,500

A WOODED 2 1/2 ACRE ON THE BANKS OF A MEANDERING BROOK: in a popular Princeton Township location is the setting for this excellent 4 bedroom Colonial. Built around a classic center hall plan, it contains a suiter living room with tall windows and a fireplace, snug, book-lined study, formal dining room with bay window, paneled family room opening to screened porch and well equipped kitchen with adjoining breakfast room. Good dry cellar, 2 1/2 baths. Two car garage. $55,000

A SOPHISTICATED RANCH HOUSE: This stunning new brick and natural slate house has everything an educated buyer would look for. A beautiful acre with ancient trees, a protected location and a fine builder were the raw materials. The nearly finished porch consists of large cedar hall, both formal and informal living rooms (one with bay window and the other with fireplace), rustic beamed ceiling and a pair of sliding thermopane windows which take a view into the woods), formal dining room, super kitchen with formal cabinets and sunny breakfast nook, laundry, study, 4 bedrooms and 2 glamorous baths. One of a kind and available almost immediately.
$49,000

WITHIN THESE GREAT STONE WALLS: This wonderful, big 19th Century house could be totally elegant with some effort and imagination. Living room, library, dining room (all with fireplaces), 8 bedrooms (two with fireplaces), and many baths. High ceilings, long windows. Huge covered porch.
Slooe annex. 1 1/2 acres in Princeton Township. Lovely old trees. $47,500

TOPICS Of The Town

THE LIBRARY AT LAST
Opening Set for Dec. 5. When the new Public Library opens on Monday, December 5, Princeton may well feel as if it had traded in a decrepit three-wheel cart for a magnificent new Rolls Royce. After more than 40 years in increasingly cramped quarters with inadequate out-of-date facilities, the library will find itself in a majestic new structure, totally equipped, comfortably furnished and with ample space.

Six thousand books will come out of storage to be placed on the shelves. Librarian Robert H. Staples and his professional staff of seven will move from their single cluttered "office" in Bainbridge House to a series of comfortably furnished offices in the new building.

Work which was previously done in the basement, hallways and closets will now be undertaken in one of the new library's admirably equipped utility rooms. Users will find that there are now enough ensues so that they can sit down, and youngsters will find that they can reach the books in the children's section, now that they are no longer stacked eight feet from the ground.

What's More . . . There are a number of other features with which the user will wish to become familiar. For instance, books will be charged from a central desk with the help of microfilm. Listeners — as many as eight at a time — will be able to audition the record collection with headphones on four new consoles.

An auditorium is available for meetings, lectures and demonstrations, and the staff will be able to relax in an attractive, comfortable lounge, complete with kitchenette.

"We wanted to build a library that would make people want to come in," explains architect Thaddeus Longstrech of 112 Heather Lane.

His success is seen in the building's handsome and distinguished exterior and its comfortably furnished and carpeted interior with its dynamic, winding staircase, the attractive plant arrangements, and Dorothea Greenbaum's charming bronze of a little girl, which graces the children's section.

Mr. Longstrech is particularly proud of the illumination, which is accomplished largely with natural light filtered through a skylight. Light (not top-lamp) is used. Glare from the sun will be blocked by a series of horizontal louvers, which are automatically controlled by sunlight.

The Public Library: A Success Story

TOWN TOPICS presents on this and the following pages an appreciation of one of the Princeton community's most appealing achievements: the dream, the planning, the designing and the construction of the new Public Library. In various stages — climaxed during the past five years — the undertaking has been on the community driving board for the past four decades.

Accompanying the pictures and stories that record creation of the building which will open Monday, December 5, at the corner of Witherspoon and Wiggins Streets are a series of messages sponsored by public-opinion firms and individuals in appreciation. More than anything TOWN TOPICS can say, they symbolize the gift that a public library can bring to a community, for they reflect a minute segment of the writings of some of the world's great authors.

The new building was constructed by William C. Ehret, Inc. of Trenton. The total cost, including furnishings and equipment, was $950,000. It contains more than five times as much floor space and will house more than three times as many books as Bainbridge House.

After 40 years. The new library has a particular historical importance, since it represents the first time the Borough and the Township have cooperated to construct a building for a municipal purpose. It is a landmark which was not easily reached.

The library was founded in 1909 in what is now Borough

A NEW PRINCETON LANDMARK: The distinguished new library building represents the first cooperative effort of the Township and the Borough to construct a building for a municipal purpose. The building was designed by Princeton architect Thaddeus Longstrech and built by William C. Ehret of Trenton at a total cost of $950,000. Ground was broken in June of 1964, and construction was begun a year later. (Warren Kruse photo)

Half a year later, the University offered to lease Bainbridge House at $1 a year, and the library moved in.

Mr. Staples notes that the ground-breaking ceremony in June, 1964, climaxed more than 40 years of "plugging away" for a new building. "One thing you see in the library reports way back in the 1920's and onwards," he says, "is that people are always writing, 'Conditions are crowded. Something must be done.'"

Princeton is "terribly aware and terribly eager to make the library a going thing." He notes that this feeling is stronger here than in other towns where he has worked.

Build-Out Obsolescence. Despite the impressive increase in size, Staples believes that the new building will already be inadequate within the next seven to ten years. However, he emphasizes that obsolescence has been carefully built out of the building.

The structure has been designed so that a third floor or partial third floor may be added with minimum expense. The foundation has been re-inforced to support an extra floor. Slabs on the roof can be removed and replaced with pillars.

Space on the first two floors is divided, not by concrete walls, but by demountable partitions which will enable the designers to re-organize space when a third floor is added. Even the building's elevator is designed to rise to a third floor.

One Thing Lacking. However, the impressive completeness of the building should not obscure the fact that one vital feature of the library is still inadequate. —Continued on Page 26

That something was finally done was due largely to people such as Miss Margaretta Sherr, whom Mr. Staples succeeded as librarian in 1964, and interested citizens who worked for the new library. In 1962, several of these citizens organized the Friends of the Public Library.

The group has helped in many facets of the library planning, and this year, it donated $4,000, which was used to purchase several unusual and expensive books, a motion picture projector and other audio-visual equipment.

Mrs. Kaiser Hears Friends. Mrs. Arthur L. Kaiser Jr. is the current president of the Friends, and Rawn Boone has been chosen next year's president.

Other contributions have come from various sources. A bequest from the late Mrs. Evelyn W. Uhart for about $100,000 was used to purchase the furnishings. Another contribution from an interested Princetonian commissioned Mrs. Greenbaum's statue. Mr. Staples finds that quote the book collection.

The printed sign over the door of Mr. Staples' office proclaims the American Library Association's judgment that Princeton Public Library should have at least 100,000 books of current interest. The library's 48,000 books will fill less than half of its capacity.

Mr. Staples points out that this situation is particularly undesirable because the books are so well circulated. The 48,000 books last year circulated about 240,000 times. The Princeton library, which has 215,000 books, has a total circulation of only 243,000.

Although the problem will eventually be solved, Mr. Staples is not sure exactly when "The first thing to do is to take stock and find out what the demands of the public are," he explains. "Right now, we're playing things by ear."

WINDING TO CULTURE

Staples Draws Attention
The new library's most striking feature, the dynamic, winding staircase which dominates the view of the interior from the first floor entrance, was not a part of the original design. A more conventional staircase was first planned to be placed near the side of the building, rather than in the center where the winding stairs are.

"The Different Worlds of a Teenager"

A photography exhibit called "The Different Worlds of the Teenager" will be presented at the new Public Library during its opening two weeks. The pictures were taken by Princeton photographer Ulli Steltzer and will be on loan from Youth Associates of 20 Nassau Street.

The three worlds shown are the public world, the semi-public world and the private world. The pictures are designed to show why the three worlds need to exist for all teenagers.

The teenager's public world is the world of school, sports, group activities and jobs. The private world is restricted to the teenager's peers. The private world ranges from participating in activities involving small groups to being alone.

In the semi-public world, there are a handful of adults who relate to the teenagers and seek to develop perspective for life. It is this semi-public world on which Youth Associates' activities are based.

Says architect Thaddeus Longstrech, "We wanted above all to make this a library that people could enjoy. We wanted them to want to come in and want to climb the circular staircase. We thought of the staircase as a place to attract interest upstairs."

The planter at the base of the staircase is being maintained by women from several area garden clubs. The arrangement will be changed periodically under the direction of Mrs. William H. Sayce III of the Great Road. Mrs. Hutchison, Fairman of 103 Monmouth Road is responsible for the current arrangement.

"WERE PLEASED"

And Proud! A new era began for the Princeton Public Library when it opens at 4 p.m. on December 5. Left behind are the years of struggle and make do, years when a new library building—first put on the Borough Council agenda in 1924—was either rejected outright or tilted.

Its new building on Wilberpool Street is a milestone in Borough-Township relations. Never before have the two municipalities joined in the construction of a public building.

"We're just very pleased and proud," says Mr. Baldwin Smith, president of the library board of trustees.

"It's a fulfillment of an ambition that the Friends of the Princeton Public Library feel was generated by them," comments Rowan Boone, who succeeded Mrs. Anley J. Coale last week as chairman of the Friends' Council. "It's also an opportunity for the Friends to assist. Our function is to see that the library not only maintains a high level of service to the community but also to set standards and in some way cultural and educational opportunities for the community."

The choice was found in the autumn of 1868 by a boy who was digging potatoes in the Rath of Ardagh (Limerick), to the south of the Shannon estuary. With it were four brooches and a small bronze chalice. They were all concealed under a stone slab within the roots of a thorn bush . . . The chalice is made very simply of a large cup and a semi-spherical foot of boat-silver. Great soft surfaces are left untouched, and on their quiet curve, the ornaments emerge with extraordinary brilliance. It belongs to that moment of perfection which marks the turning point of a youthful impetus . . . and a surfeited and over-elaborate decoration.

Consider this situation: I am locked in a pitching bottle, there are two outs, nobody on base, and the number eight hitter is at bat. The number eight hitter is hardly one of the most fearsome hitters in the line-up, and, even if he should get on base, the pitcher is coming up. It is a lazy part of the game. Even the most rabid Dodger rooster would be relaxed.

But not from where I'm standing. I want this batter and I want him bad. I don't want to have to face the pitcher this inning; I want him leading off the next inning, because if we can get the first man out, we have taken a lot of things away from the other team. We have taken away the bunt and one good way toward taking away the hit-and-run ... We have also completely removed the possibility that they can score on a double play. But I want the pitcher leading off the inning for another reason, too. I'm thinking two innings ahead ...

Alfred Eaton was for quite a few years considered one of the fair-haired young men of Wall Street. But in my opinion, he did it all with brains and luck. I don't know why he liked me, but he did, and I liked him very much, but I don't think he gave a damn for anyone else he saw, and I think that's the impression most men got. I must explain to you that when your business is money, you stand to make an enemy every time you go into a deal ... But Alfred didn't only make enemies. I believe one can learn to interrogate a picture in such a way as to intensify and prolong the pleasure it gives one; and if art must do something more than give pleasure, then 'knowing what one likes' will not get one very far. Henry did his stuff for the (Raymond) Harpers and Dr. (Arthur) Brown. Harper's house, in Princeton, is next door to Dr. Albert Einstein's. It would be wonderful, Harper said, if there were water on his place so that he could enlarge his garden and perhaps have a pool. That, Henry said, was easily ascertainable. He asked his row a few questions, then assured Mr. and Mrs. Harper that they had a fine vein of good drinking water in the extreme northeastern corner of their Princeton land, 7 1/2 feet underground. For good measure, Henry also dowsed Dr. Einstein's property and on it found two veins of water, 8 feet deep.

Perhaps Mr. Harper didn't need water as much as he thought he did: perhaps he didn't believe a diving rod, operating in a private bar in Kennebunkport, Maine, could accurately point out a vein of water in Princeton, New Jersey.

In all events, he did nothing, until, nine months later, certain occurrences forced him to take action — action as startling to him as it was to Horace and me.

VISIT TO TRAVNIK

So one can have it both ways. Indeed one can have a great deal more than one has supposed one could, if only one lives, as these people did, in a constant and loyal state of preference for the agreeable over the disagreeable. It might be thought that nothing could be easier, but that is not the case. We in the West find it almost impossible, and are caught unawares when we meet it in practice. That was brought home to me by this woman's tender gesture of farewell. First she took all the lilacs from a vase beside her sofa and gave them to me, but then felt this was not a sufficient civility. She made me lay down the flowers, and took a scent-bottle from her table and sprinkled my hands with the scent, gently rubbing it into my skin. It was the most gracious farewell imaginable, and the Western world in which I was born would have overlooked it.

Its fastidiousness would, of course, have been bogus, for the scent was exquisite, a rich yet light derivative from Bulgarian art of roses. These people were infallible in their judgments of matters, having been tutored for centuries by their part in the luxury trade between Bosnia and Tsarigrad, as they named Constantinople; and she had assumed that persons of our kind would have a like education and would recognize that this scent was of the first order. She had also assumed that I would like to receive a gift which showed that somebody who had not known me two hours before now liked me. She assumed, in fact, that I too preferred the agreeable to the disagreeable. Remembering the grey ice that forms on an Englishman's face as he is introduced to a stranger, I reflected that she was too audacious in her assumption.

"SHAM ON WRY"

Triangle's Princeton's famous undergraduate Triangle Club will line up its 77th annual production for four performances in McCarter Theatre on December 1.

"Sham on Wry" will open on Thursday, December 8, at 8:30 and will play again on Friday and Saturday, December 9 and 10 at the same hour, and Saturday at a 2:30 matinee.

Tickets will be on sale at the main box office starting next Monday.

DE LARROCHA TO PLAY Spanish Planet Here, Alicia de Larrocha, Spanish pianist, will make her Princeton debut on Monday, December 12 at 8:30 in McCarter Theatre as one of the artists in the "Music at McCarter" series. Hailed earlier this month as "a marvel" by Harold Schonberg of the New York Times, Mme. de Larrocha has impressed critics in her native Spain with her interpretations of Spanish composers, in particular her performance of the Albeniz "Berce."

For her Princeton appearance she has chosen works by Bach, Soler, Schubert, Garsland and Albeniz.

PLAYERS TO MEET

To Hear Reading: The Princeton Community Players will meet on Sunday at 8:30 at the Unitarian Church at the intersection of Cherry Hill Road and State Road. The public is invited.

A reading of "Helen's Husband," an historical comedy by Philip Moeller, will be presented under the direction of Loree Zossman. The Players will also discuss their plans for the future, including plans for an actor's workshop to be directed by Mario Siletti.

PLAYHOUSE AND DRIVE-IN

The Professionals now playing is a high-gaited adventure story, with four professional killers somehow gaining a lot of sympathy.

A wealthy American, played by Ralph Bellamy, hires the killers, Bart Lancaster, Lee Remick, Robert Ryan and Woody Strode, to go to Mexico and get his young wife, Claudia Cardinale, who was kidnapped by a revolutionary, Jack Palance.

It's a rugged tale, well suited to the rough mountain terrain, with battles, dynamiting and the doublecross adding to the confusion. The performances are excellent.

THE GARDEN

The Shameless Old Lady (now playing). It used to be said that life began at 40, but it begins at 70 for Madame Gerbe, set in a delightful fashion by the great French star Sylvestre.

Far most of her years, she has slaved for her husband, owner of a small truck busness, and their five children, now grown and married. One day the husband dies, and she is for the first time completely independent. She makes up a whole new world for herself and her enjoyment of this is the rest of the compelling story.

The star has one of the great faces of motion picture history—radiating human dignity, understanding and character. The face of a woman—as well as an actress—who has truly lived. Maika Ribova is the waitress and Victor Lanoux, the old lady's favorite nephew, are particularly noteworthy in the supporting cast. The film received a huge ovation at the New York Film Festival this year.

PRINCE

Not With My Wife, You Don't! now playing! This comedy, filmed in splendid color, where the world was young and our heroes younger still, was back during the Korean Police Action, starring Yvonne Little and of daring fire George C. Scott. "With every body making who's making the war?" A good question.

The task at hand in this film is sophisticated, starring Tony Curtis as a wheeling-dealing insurance salesman; Scott, a ladies-first, flying-later chap; and Miss Lisi, whose perfume can almost be detected from the fingering clasp. There are some cute bits and funny scenes in the rivalry over Miss Lisi. And there's a happy ending.

IT'S NEW To Us

CHRISTMAS!

Ready to Plant! If you're looking ahead to Christmas, the hour after Thanksgiving turkey is as good a time to begin. You can sit by the turkey rack and begin to make lists.

Here is the first in our annual series of Christmas shopping columns. This one concerns the things you ought to do right now. If your gift is going to be ready and delivered by Christmas, Next week, we'll describe personal gifts for you, then toys, gifts for the home and finally a toast-off with food and drink.

Nassau Interiors, at 162 Nassau, can still get Christmas delivery for you on many sofas, love-seats, ottomans, chairs and large pieces, generally.

Wouldn't it be nice, on Christmas morning, to find under the tree an 84-inch sofa? The one we have in mind, is upholstered at the moment in a very wide hankle-backed, roller of oatmeal with golden honey (and a touch of blueberry here and a d there). It has three back cushions and small flaps of pillow at each arm side.

One, more formal in fabric, is beige-on-beige, designed with the arms and the back the same height — you know the style. Another in this fashion has been upholstered with a formalized urn and garland design that belies the sturdy cuts. Colors are deep brown and white.

The loveseat we have in mind is all gold and cream, again with a formal design, this one rather like a candlestick.

You choose the fabric, of course; we're just describing the cuts on the floor.

At Manning's, on the far side of Lawrenceville between Princeton and Trenton, you'll exclaim over the Lawson sofa in ruby velvet, a very long, very rich-looking living-room piece. In the same manner, is a broad-based sofa with diamond tufting in the back, and a gentle overall curve.

Quilted chintz has been used for a four-cushion sofa which looks as though it could seat all your friends in a row without any elbow-touching.

Another four-cushion is more modern, with a trumpet treatment on the fabric.

Early Americans are always treated affectionately at Manning's. Here's a Pennsylvania House's tall-back wing sofa in a dark, homespun olive green (S450). It has three cushions, but a similar one, in documentary print, has a two. Equally comfortable.

Very Early American indeed is Manning's rocker, with its maple arm tips and wings, a striped skirt and homespun upholstery.

Recliners and rockers are lining all over the place at Manning's. Pennsylvania House has another that one above was Penn's; too that's a swivel rocker, $225, with $66 for a matching ottoman your feet can return to after each swivel.

La-Z-Boy's rocker is styled for the ladies, perhaps even for a certain kind of bouffant. It's made in metal and covered with a scale damask that simmers with the pleasant sound of gold.

That Astro TV Rock-er is a platform rocker, a TV rocker, a

A Foot on the Floor

Nassau Interiors, as you know, is moving out of one story (360 Nassau), and is already completely at home at another (162 Nassau). Between the clearance bargains at 360 and the new things at 162, it's going to be quite a Christmas for a penny shopper.

But getting back to that floor, Nassau Interiors has stocked, at 162 Nassau, a brand new and very extensive collection of broad-based sofas, rugs, and some of them are splendid indeed.

We're thinking of Cabin Craft's 9 x 12 paley in hunkle patterns of blues and greens — $600, but what a rug!

Look at the sample swatches and then just try to make up your mind! (The rug is on the floor, in the lounge chair and a tall bed re-cliner — or so they tell us.)

Time to Shop. When you enter Manning's, you'll hear the pleasant sound of chiming Grandfather's clock (well, Grandmother's, by its gentle tick), and that chiming sounds like the pleasant kind of Christmas present for the whole family.

Upstairs, Pennsylvania House is serving from authentic breakfasters or buffets, and laying out your holiday feast on all kinds of early-American dining tables. What a happy day — can't the Christmas goose from a new, but early American table!

Ivy Manor is still recovering from its severe fire, so you'll — continue on page 27

It's New To Us

to Route 206 to The Rug
Mart for your Ivy Manor-Rug
Mart choice.
Barca Loungers here at The Rug Mart can be ordered in time for a relaxed Christmas.
But wait! Is that a tiger I see before me, it's stripes toward me... Yep, it's a tiger-striped leisure chair in ivory with black stripes, all pleasantly
furry. THE WHOLE CHAIR
Sit down, recline and purr.

Sofas at The Rug Mart are in many styles, some available for Christmas delivery, some calling for a gift certificate in Christmas stocking. But anything on the floor can go go go.
We're thinking of a very dark olive green modern sofa with arms so low that the piece is really a bench. It's roughly homemade and the oblong pillows along the low back are striped in sombre shades of green and grey.

A great big modern room needs Rug Mart's curving sectional. This one, on the floor, has rust tufted seats and a happy modern floral print on all the back cushions. We saw it swept around a corner, with luscious olive piece, triangle for the corner and several singles in a row. Measure your room, then choose.

From the East

Fabulous is an overworked word, but when it's used to describe a fa-bule... and when it comes from the Fabulous East...
well, why not?

We have in mind a square
of fine cotton printed in what looks like a batik, but must be something quite different. In technique, because actual figures are represented.
The square, about a yard
each way, shows Balinese or Thai, or possibly Indian figures from mythology,
in color against a strong background of — you'd never guess! — orange and black.

The squares are $50, ready for Christmas giving at Fabric Find, 185 Nassau.

Early American is quite at home at The Rug Mart, too.
Tiele E. A. reclining rocker is a very rough-hewn wood stained dark, dark walnut with knots and the subtle shadings of the plane to blend right in with the good old homespun upholstery.

We don't have to tell you, if you can read the name on the floor, that The Rug Mart can accommodate you, wall to wall,
if that is your holiday pleasure. Browning, anyone?

Sew, For Love. We slipped a few needle into the sewing machine, a nickel into the parking meter and ourselves into The Fabric Shop on Chambers, just for Christmas.

Everybody is sewing for Daddy, it seems. Or it "seems." If you're a purist with pun and thread! Fabric Shop finds customers making meticulous sport shirts out of fine plaid cotton, matching all the stripes with eye-stripping accuracy.

Vests, of course, are easier to make, and Fabric Shop suggests you allow a buckle in the luck, in case Christmas dinner is too much.

Robes for your traveling man or your stay-at-home might be a darling paisley cotton, easy to fold for travel, easy to hang when he's home. A fabric similar to Yvelita but slightly more modest in pattern, makes a fine slip or solid robe. One washable plaid, bright and red, feels like the wood, but is a more useful blend.

Little girl's robes will probably be cut from bright quilted cottons and sewn lavishly by mothers while second-graders are in school.

The Best Dress for a daughter's Christmas might be that lacy plum velvet, edged with the hand-stitched lace, about two inches wide and straight out of a Goya portrait.

If you prefer something lighter than plum, Fabric Shop has a luscious velvet which would be enchanting on a little girl's with very dark hair, and a rose pink much more de-

more than shocking, but not patriotic by any means.

Your teen-ager may decide on a velvet top with a brocade skirt, or perhaps a whole brocade. The sheer nude print with its embossed flowers, could be worn as a cap, or lined. Fabric Shop has it in browns or blues.

If you can break away for a party yourself, make a party dress out of the shawl brocade with its precise gold leaf sprays or a sparkling print with gold emphasizing each flower.

Lots of glitter on Chambers Street, but, as some occasions
call for less shine, there is light-colored wool, a bright coral double knit, perhaps, or a cranberry.

Bonded crepe, in aqua, royal,
black, rosy pink, cranberry is easy to sew because of the bonding, and you can trim it in a two-inch band of jet sequins or a strip of iridescent white light.

Your own holiday robe, less utilitarian than your husband's to say the least, might be velvet or velour in a wilderness of sapphire and violet, pinks and oranges at $5 a yard (washable). This is a wild, 1966
palsky.

For the boudoir, Fabric Shop suggests the palest flannel and quilted nylon, lined softly with tulle. There are two points, a seater of pinky flow-

Silkens, At Fabric Find, the shop at 193 Nassau at the head of Moore, the emphasis is at ways on imported goods of them from Thailand, or India.
The colors and stripes in these silks are as softly brilliant as a pair of dark Indian eyes.

A silk square from Thailand is displayed on the wall, and in truth it would be quite as effective as a hanging as it would be incorporated into a costume.

From India, Fabric Find has fragments of hand-embroidered fine cotton, narrowly woven and for that reason splendid for a dramatic effect.

Buy the whole piece of deep-violet silk (green) and make yourself a memorable holiday hostess skirt. Those nude prints for a cash dress are at Fabric Find, too, and they will change your skill as a seamstress.

One of our favorite Fabric Finds is re-embroidered silk—
it looks French—in a color which might be deep beige or cote au lait with heavy leavings on the left. For evening coat, or an evening skirt, it would be incomparable.

Let's leave our pre-pre-Christmas tour with a reminder that The Fabric Shop on Charlers Street has 72-inch felt for Christmas table covers, in red,
teal, deep blue green, white,
or gold, $3 a yard.

room of the Chancellor Green Student Center from 4 to 6 on December 6 and December 20.

BULK WATER CONSIDERED
By West Windsor. A bulk water contract with Princeton Water Co. may be the answer to West Windsor Township's water problems. At its last meeting, the Township Committee announced that it would meet with the water company
next Tuesday, November 29,
to discuss possible arrangements.

The contract may be needed to bring water to parts of the Township which are now inadequately serviced, since more geological tests will be necessary before West Windsor can build a municipal well.

Preliminary tests on the Grover's Mill area suggest that the water supply there may be insufficient. The southeast part of the Township near Light-town has also been proposed as a site. Committee member Carson is studying the recommendations.

West Windsor Mayor Malcolm B. Roszel reported to the committee on negotiations with Philadelphia postal officials over a consolidated township post office. Township mail is now delivered to road-side mailboxes.

The committee also took up complaints from parents that fighting in some area schools is inadequate. Committee

E. S. Firsh will study this problem at the Dutch Neck School.

SPEEDER LOSSES LICENSE

Convinced to Connecticut.
Under a reciprocity agreement with Connecticut, the N. J. Division of Motor Vehicles has suspended for one month the license of Eugene H. Farnum, 34, 10 Dickinson Street. He was charged with speeding.

The other speeders each lost their licenses for 30 days. They are Lou H. Smith, 28, 172 Nassau Street, and Robert J. Rumor, 30, 43 Partridge Run, Belle Head.

UNUSUAL EXHIBITS SET

For Greens Show. A preservation on birds and conservation and a display of holly and conifers are among the many exhibits planned for the Hopewell Valley Garden Club's green show, "Christmas Fir Fun — By Candlelight." The show will be presented at the Hopewell Presbyterian Church on Friday, December 2, from 2 to 8 and on Saturday, December 3, from 10 to 4.

J. Douglas Dickinson of the Stacy Ford Auction Center is planning the bird exhibit, and Mr. and Mrs. Townsend Scudder are preparing the holly and conifer display. The public is invited to submit entries for one of the judging classes called "Toast to the New Year."
Those interested should call
Mrs. Roger Van Driesen, 446-0350.

Admission to the show is free, and punch will be served.
Mrs. Newell Holcombe is hospitality chairman of the show.
She is being assisted by Mrs.
David Bellia, Mrs. Theodore
Pearson, Mrs. Richard Edling
and Mrs. Raymond Van Dyke.

Laundry—Dry Cleaning

By Archimedes (Bernard)

When a woman tells me her new hair color makes her feel prettier than ever, I'm delighted. A good hairdresser, like any artist, strives to achieve beauty in color and form — and to protect that beauty once he achieves it.

When I work for a subtle,
natural looking effect in hair-coloring, I certainly want it to keep that effect. I do this by giving conditioning treatments whenever the hair needs it.
This is one of the reasons we are noted for our hair coloring skills.

Hair coloring is an art — a delicate art — so have it done
by expert haircoloring technicians at TAVERNWOOD
BEAUTY MANOR, 69 Palmer
Square West, or call 924-3982.

GIVE TWO WAYS AT XMAS
Win P. T. A. "Certificates"
The Princeton High School P. T. A. has launched a Christmas magazine drive to give donors a chance to aid the P. T. A. scholarship fund and solve Christmas shopping problems at the same time.
P. T. A. representatives are selling "certificates," gift certificates which allow the recipient to choose his own magazine. When he receives the card, the recipient marks his choice and returns it to the P. T. A., which begins the subscription.

Profits from the drive will be used for the scholarship fund. A magazine drive last spring provided the funds for scholarship awards of 13 Princeton high students.
There are two varieties of "certificates" representing two different groups of magazines in different price ranges. Those wishing further information on the drive should call Mrs. R. M. Darrow or Mrs. Heinz Heinemann, the drive co-chairmen, or Mrs. Charles Plummer, treasurer.

HOSPITAL LUNCHEON SET
To Report on Sale, The Hospital Aid Committee will hold its fall luncheon next Thursday, December 1, at noon at the Forsyth Country Club in Jamesburg. A report will be made at the luncheon on the committee's recent rummage sale.
Table decorations will feature Christmas accessories from the Hospital Aid Shop. Those needing information or transportation should call Mrs. Paul G. Herkert, 924-1716.

GOVERNOR TO SPEAK
At School Dedication, Governor Richard Hughes will speak at the dedication ceremony of the new Timberline Junior School on Saturday, December 3, at 3. Opened last September, the newest school in the nine-school Hopewell Valley district houses seventh and eighth grades.
The announcement of the dedication was made at the meeting of the Hopewell Valley Regional Board of Education. In other business, the board approved a policy complying with the State Code providing for the retirement of school

Reproductions Of Early American Furniture

At Case Farm, woodworking is a labor of love. You just can't turn out custom furniture on an assembly line basis. Each detailed step is hand-tooled with the techniques of days gone by. If you think this artistry has passed from the current scene, come visit us and see the fine work we turn out. In our new all-electric sawmill, a converted farm building, you can browse among samples of the twenty-five or more different pieces we make. And you're perfectly welcome to take a look at our woodworking facilities, too. But don't expect to see a steam-bag operation! Old-time craftsmanship requires TLC.

TURNOUT, OVER TOPLESSNESS: Topless waitresses? That's going too far, in the opinion of Don Brian (right). "Really going too far," he adds. Harry Mohr feels it's up to them. If that's what they want to do, says, it's their prerogative.

Question of the Week

Question: What is your opinion of topless waitresses? ...
Where asked: Nassau Street

Harry Mohr, Yardville, Pa., carpenter, building and grounds, Theological Seminary. It's their prerogative. If that's what they want to do, that's up to them. I don't see anything vulgar about it.

Tom Brian, Kingston, superintendent, grounds and buildings, Theological Seminary. I feel it's going too far. I really feel it's going too far! I think there is a line that men expect of women in public and they wouldn't exceed that line.

Miss Suzy Hagard, 5-Murray Place, bookkeeper, Firestone Library. I think they're terrible. I don't think women should go around exposing themselves in public. I think it's in very poor taste.

Patricia Murray, Fairless Hills, Pa., secretary, Kepner-Tree Associates, 60 Clinton Street. If they want to do it, why not? Women are exhibitionists at heart. They're just doing it for publicity. Their names are in the paper, they're in front every day. I wouldn't do it myself but I'd love to go visit one of these places.

Don O'Dell, Princeton University Apartments, Seminary student. I'm not especially for it. I don't think it's lewd—I'm not a bawdier or anything like that—but I think there are certain things people can enjoy which carry within them a certain responsibility—like sex with the responsibility of marriage. When one starts enjoying this thing but avoids the responsibility that goes with them, then this rubs me the wrong way.

Mrs. Alice Wilson, Trenton, nurse's aid. I don't approve. Anybody with any decency wouldn't do it. It's vulgar.

Miss Cheryl Ewart, Rocky Hill, secretary. I think it's pretty disgusting, especially to the image of a woman.

Frank Telesco, 303 Bwing Street, owner, Tiger News Service. I don't like it. It's okay out in California but not here. I think there's a different class of people here. I can see something like a hunchy but this is going too far. The type of people you would attract would not be respectable people.

Mrs. E. K. Ervin, Princeton Junction, housewife. All I can say is I'm against it. I think they should be banned.

Noah Martin, Moore Street, Seminary student. I think it's disgraceful. I'm a student at the Seminary and maybe that accounts for my prejudice.

David Chisel, Bradley Beach, salesman. I don't think much of that. I think it is vulgar.

Mrs. Clara Smale, Institute for Advanced Study, housewife. I'm not too interested, myself. I came from California where it's a big thing in San Francisco. The idea doesn't upset me but, on the other hand, I wouldn't go to a restaurant just because of topless waitresses. I'd go because the food was good. If other people want to enjoy that sort of thing, I think it is all right for them to go to these places. In San Francisco, there was a tendency for other businesses to have a hard time to make a go of it. Places that had featured good jazz, for example, had to close for lack of business or move away from the area. I think it's just a fad. I think over the long run it will die out like all other fads.

Thomas Townsend, Route 27, employee, Borough street department. I think it's bad for a girl to appear like that in public, and get close to people.

Mrs. Brenda Foster, Trenton, secretary in Princeton. They let California do it, they should let New York do it. New York is supposed to be sophisticated. In Europe they don't think anything of it. They swim nude in Sweden. I don't see anything too wrong with it. I wouldn't object going to such a place.

Mrs. Jeanette Zaggi, Trenton, secretary in Princeton. It's funny; everybody's objecting to it, yet there are lines waiting to get into these places. If people don't want to see it, they don't have to go in. They don't have anything to complain about. It all boils down to how one personally feels about it. If these girls can make money that way, if it's the only way they can earn a living, I see no reason to object; everybody has to make a living. It's no different than a Playboy Club, although I myself wouldn't want to go to one of these places.

Mrs. Richard Speagle, Snow-Lane, nursery school teacher. I'm against them. I just don't think they are necessary.

Mrs. Lee Waks, Lawrence Township, housewife. I wouldn't want my husband going to such places. Nite clubs, yes; restaurants, no. I wouldn't want to go into any place where they had topless waitresses. I think they should be limited to night clubs or places where just men go.

GET CHRISTMAS CASH

From Bank Club. The First National Bank has mailed $280,158 in members of its Christmas Club. The sum represents their accumulated weekly payments during the past year.

Although most of the money will, probably be spent on Christmas shopping, past experience shows that Christmas club members use part of their savings for other purposes, such as winter vacations, college tuition payments or new household appliances. In many cases, Christmas Club savings are transferred in part to regular savings accounts.

APPLICATIONS ACCEPTED

For Academy Nomination. Rep. Frank Thompson is accepting applications for nominations to the academies from qualified students in the area. Candidates interested in the Military, Naval, Air Force or Merchant Marine Academies should obtain an application from the Congressman's Washington office. The deadline for completing the preliminary procedure is January 20. Candidates must be from 17 to 22 years old, unmarried and of excellent physical condition. Applicants must also participate in the College Board Entrance Examination.

GET OUT THE PAINTS!

For Youngsters. Arts and crafts classes for Princeton children sponsored by the Joint Recreation Department have been started again. Youngsters in grades three through eight are eligible to participate without charge.

Classes will be held at Valley Road School and John Witherspoon School from 9 to 11 a.m. each Saturday from this week until April except November 26, December 24 and December 31. Children may register at one of the opening sessions.

If there is a large registration, two sessions will be scheduled so that all students may receive individual attention. The instructor at Valley Road and Miss Joyce Sinkler at John Witherspoon

TEENAGE DANCE PLANNED

By Morven Society. The Teen-age Group of the Morven Society, Children of this American Revolution, will sponsor a dance for teenagers at the High School Gymnasium on Saturday, December 10. The Group is also making plans for industrial trips to Washington and New York.

Mary Jones and Julie Arington are co-chairmen of the affair. Other members of the committee are Caleb Puller, Eloise Higgins Ray Ashton, Sally Rech, Jeff Michael, Ken Cook, Ken Young and Mrs. M. A. Rech.

EXCESS size and weight in a car may tickle your vanity, but they sabotage performance.

The practical-minded men who designed the Mercedes-Benz 250S refused to put this machine with needless bulk. It weighs a ton less than its overweight rivals. It's two feet shorter overall.

Yet inside, five adults find plentiful seating room. More rear seat hip room than the newest Rolls-Royce. More headroom than a Lincoln Continental. More shoulder room than an Oldsmobile Toronado.

Four secret: thin-profile doors, side windows that curve into the roof, recessed floor pan—and a ban on sitting tricks that cut passenger space.

Fundamentals, not gimmicks

You invest in superior engineering with the 250S, not trivial doodads.

For example, you ride on a suspension that makes most other $6400 sedans seem like museum pieces. It's fully independent; the

Designed around its occupants and not a "sying theme," the new Mercedes-Benz 250S sedan provides plentiful room for five—and 87% unobstructed visibility for the driver. A refreshingly sane car. Clip the coupon for a free brochure.

This engine is one of the most exquisitely well built machines of its kind in the world. After hours of patient hand assembly, it undergoes a patient hour of about testing on a special stand—with oil changed 62 times to flush away debris.

Stopping made easy

It doesn't take a technical whiz to know why the 250S out-stops virtually every car in its class. Its brakes are 4-wheel disc brakes, the most advanced system available. Baffling how no domestic "luxury" car has adapted 4-wheel disc brakes.

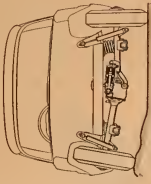

"The car has enormous stopping power," says Car and Driver Magazine. And it stops enormous—even after repeated panic stops. A small valve in the 250S brake system balances front and rear braking forces to prevent rear wheel lockup in sudden hard stops.

Not a blunderbuss

Since the 250S isn't an oversized behemoth, it doesn't need an oversized behemoth of an engine to propel it.

At that, the overhead camshaft 6-cylinder engine up front is hardly puny; you can purr along at over 100 mph as long as it's legal. "There is as little inside noise at 100 mph as at a standstill," comments New York Herald Tribune columnist, Leo Levine.

Herald Tribune columnist, Leo Levine.

Mercedes-Benz using axle pivot in center, lets rear wheels flex separately over bumps.

rear axle is split into two halves to blot up bumps and grip the road as no conventional "solid rear axle" can.

Tenacious road holding and taut, wallowing-free ride are musts for European driving. As you'll find on curves, country lanes and in city traffic, they translate beautifully to American conditions.

Safety an obligation

Mercedes-Benz considers safety a moral obligation, not a public relations problem. Some results of this view:

The 250S body itself is a safety feature. The center section where you ride is rigid. Front and rear ends are designed to sample on violent impact and absorb shock (the less shock you receive, the less threat of serious injury).

Possible interior hazards have been padded, recessed, or made of pliable material such as rubber. The steering wheel has a big padded palm. The instrument panel is padded to protect your head and your knees. The rearview mirror, spring-mounted in its socket, snaps away if struck. These features and many more are found in all Mercedes-Benz cars—and were there long before the current "safety controversy." Upbeat ending: The $6400 price includes power-assisted steering and brakes and automatic transmission. A simplified 250S can be yours for $5884.

ART In Princeton

"ROMA 3"
At McCarter. An unusual show called "Roma 3" has been brought to McCarter Theatre by the Princeton Art Association. Originated in Rome with three young Italian artists and brought to Chicago by the Galleria Mosca of that city, the exhibition will travel across the country starting with a two-week stand here in Princeton before going on to Philadelphia and New York.

The outstanding interest lies in the close association of these artists as friends and contemporaries who, while sharing the same basic concepts, are most individual in their expressions.

Mario Coppola. Born in Sicily in '34, Coppola studied in Ravenna where he must have been greatly influenced by its art. His inquiry into nature led to fragments of collage, changes of textures and delicate colors, all of which pieced together a romantic or poetical illustration of natural life. As one viewer put it, "Coppola is an organic one." His paintings do give a feeling of evolution with sinuous shapes and vague forms bubbling up through water and air in a mysterious way.

Angelo Canevari. Born in Leghorn in '27, he is the senior member and probably the most mature artist in the group. His view of nature combines strength with a Dali-like imposition of illusion. A stone wall has been thrust through to reveal a distant seascape. Sketches of memories and scenes of the past versus reality are presented to dramatic effect. As his biographer states, "he shows perverse juxtaposition of the possible and the impossible," and this he does forcefully in paint.

Angelo Canevari. Born in '30, is the sculptor of Roma 3. His work in metal comes out of intensive drawing and a close concern with balance of light and dark and space area. The drawings, shown here also, are skillful. It is interesting to study them as working models and to compare them with the finished work of art. The sculpture, exhibited effectively on high at McCarter, naturally has more strength and feeling than the drawings and often, as in "Haze and Rider," more exciting movement.

RESCUE GROUP FORMED
To Save Italian Art. Fifty-one Princeton residents have formed an organization to aid the national Committee to Rescue Italian Art. The committee is working to salvage and restore works damaged in the calamitous floods which recently inundated Florence and other parts of Italy.

Prof. David R. Coffin, chairman of the University's art department, and Mrs. Margaret Melos of 43 Maxwell Lane are co-chairmen of the Princeton group, which has been formed primarily to raise funds for work in Italy. Both are members of the national committee.

Other Princeton residents serving on both groups are Frederick B. Adams, 1404 4th Allston Road, Prof. Ernest D. McDowell, former director of the University Museum, Prof. Rensselaer W. Lee of 120 Merland Street, and Dr. Mildred Nease, member of the Institute for Advanced Study.

The floods which struck Italy on November 4 were the worst in five centuries. Estimated at more than $500 million, the losses in Florence were greater than those suffered during World War II.

The Princeton organization is a solicited group of students, schools, social and business groups and individuals. Those wishing to contribute should mail checks to the Committee to Rescue Italian Art, either in care of the Department of Art and Archaeology at the University or directly to 1 East 78th Street, New York, N. Y.

PA A TO MEET
Show Preview Set. The Princeton Art Association will meet on Thursday, December 1, at 8 p.m. at the PAA gallery, 14 Nassau Street. Members will see a preview of the PAA art show and a film on optical art.

Mrs. William McKinley is in charge of the show. She is being assisted by Mrs. John Franklin and Mrs. Harold R. Bank. The show will include works by PAA artists, instructors and students in the adult and junior classes.

Charles McVicker, PAA program chairman, will present "The Responsive Eye," a film on Op Art prepared by the Museum of Modern Art. The film is designed to provide insight into the controversial new art form.

William Seitz of the Museum and Prof. Rudolf Arnheim of Sarah Lawrence College will participate in a discussion on the film. During the open discussion which will follow the program, PAA president Mrs. Neil O'Connor will discuss the Association's plans.

PUBLICATIONS ON VIEW
In Library Graphics Display. A collection of Italian "presage" publications are currently on display in the Graphics Arts gallery of Firestone Library. The lavishly illustrated works are outstanding examples of contemporary typographical design.

The "presage publication" is an unusual type of work peculiar to Italy. It usually illustrates the art, scenery, history, or business of a particular region and is published by public and private organizations in Italy for distribution to patrons and friends.

The exhibit will remain at the library until Wednesday, November 30, when it will go to Dartmouth. Included in the display is a collection of sketches accumulated by Count Sebastian Resca. The edition contains 224 plates and 248 drawings.

Did it ever occur to you that perhaps the money in your savings account wasn't really available? In many out-of-town institutions there is a waiting period, or a penalty... or both!

IVY SEASON A SHOCKER

As First Triple Tie Occurs.

Ten years after it became a formal organization, the Ivy League topped everything that had gone before by managing to stage three football games on the final day of the season, each of which played a part in the outcome of the race.

A fortnight earlier, when a four-way tie for the lead was created by Princeton's eye-popping defeat of unknown Harvard, a Columbia mathematics professor announced that the remaining half dozen games involving the front-running quartet could result in any one of some 6,500 different final standings. Just which one of the 6,500 the eventual triple tie among Princeton, Dartmouth and Harvard was on his scale never came to light; it was, however, a finish so intriguing that many a football fan in these parts and at Hanover and Cambridge can hardly wait until next year.

In the course of the 1966 season there were three distinctly surprising final scores, each of which played an equal share in determining the unprecedented triple tie. The first of these was Dartmouth's 51-13 victory over Princeton at Hanover, a margin that could have been twice that size based on the ease with which the Indians rolled to a 24-7 halftime lead.

Two weeks later, a Harvard eleven that had been largely picked to finish in second di-

HE LIVED TO TELL THE TALE: Pete Larson, Cornell half-back, is the object of attention of five Princeton players in Saturday's game. Pulling the wheezy on him are Bruce Wayne and big Lee Hitehner, with Carl Behnke (74) and Doug Jones (17) ready to lend a hand. When Vigers' defensive unit blanked Ithaca's, 7-0, it marked first shutout of Cornell by Princeton in seven years. (TOWN TOPICS Photo by Bob Matthews.)

vision drove 80 yards against the clock for a third touchdown against Dartmouth's presumably solid defensive forces. The 19-14 victory the Crimson achieved was the Indians' first loss in 11 Ivy games and put Harvard squarely in the calibrating seat.

One to Remember, Always. On the afternoon of November 5, Princetonians watched a game they will treasure through the years. A Tiger eleven that had barely played a single quarter of twilight football all season erased a 14-3 deficit against Harvard with a superbly-staged last quarter rally that produced an 18-14 victory.

In Hanover that day, during the winning moments of Dartmouth's one-sided game with Columbia, the fans were in an uproar at the public address system fed them minute-by-minute bulletins on the progress of the game in Palmer Stadium. Down on the field, cheerleaders wearing green sweaters with big white 'D's' on them led cheer after cheer for Princeton.

Because two of the four teams in the original four-way tie played each other, it was virtually inevitable that all four would not finish on the top rung of the ladder—although this, too, was mathematically possible. On the next-to-last Saturday of the season, Dartmouth staged a sizzling second half rally to erase a ten-point Cornell lead, dropping the Ithacans from a share of first place.

The stage was accordingly set for Saturday's finale in Palmer Stadium. A Princeton team that had remained alive in the race by blocking a punt for victory in the Yale Bowl with three minutes to play still had a chance to tie for the championship, despite the fact that three weeks earlier there was major doubt over its ability to finish out of second division.

Old Fashioned Pistol Duel.
 The game that was played between Cornell and Princeton was a fascinating throwback to the years before World War I. The 7-0 victory the Tigers recorded represented the smallest number of points in the series since the scoreline of 1932, and no one can recall when a game had as many as 11 players in which there was a total of 20 punts—ten by each team.

It was typical of these 1966 Princetonians that they stood off two Cornell threats deep into their own territory and they won in the final minutes after creating their own opportunity to do so. A pair of recovered fumbles, both of which were pounced on by defensive back Hayward Gibson—set the drive in motion. One stopped Cornell's last scoring threat on the Princeton 20, the other—after the Tigers had yielded the ball on fourth down at midfield—was the start of the touchdown drive itself.

Inevitably, it had a full share of suspense. On a fourth-and-four situation from the 31, Dick Bracken passed to quarterback Ted Howard to keep the drive in motion. Then the Tigers moved to a first down nine and a half yards away from the goal line, the toughest spot of all to have one, because it is TD or not from there in just four plays. Bracken was spilled on a shot around right end, but wingback John Bowers reversed in the same sector with five. With Ted Garcia set to go in for a field goal attempt had the next run fallen short, the Tigers produced the year as a convoy of four puffed the way for Bracken's sweep around the left flank, well into the end zone.

The 19th annual Lawrenceville School Hockey Tournament will draw eight hockey teams to Princeton, N.J., on Friday and Saturday, December 16 and 17.

Entrants include Nichols School of Buffalo, the defending champion; Belmont Hill, which won in 1964; Anderson, St. Paul's and Trinity College School of Canada—all former champions. Heading out the field are Taft, Cheshire and the host school, Lawrenceville.

Tournament play begins Friday morning, with the semifinal and final night and consolation finals Saturday morning. The championship game will be played Saturday afternoon in Baker Rink.

Garcia converted, leaving Cornell a good half of the period in which to try for the matching TD and, unquestionably, a two-point conversion. The victory never crossed midfield, punting once and losing the ball finally on a perfectly executed interception by Doug James. At the whistle, it was Princeton which was pounding away at the Cornell five-yard line.

As had Yale, Cornell twice hurt itself badly by penalties. In the opening period, it drove to a first down on the Princeton 21 but a holding penalty nullified the gain and forced a punt. To the third quarter, Bill Abel reached the Tiger ten, but a punch thrown right under the field judge's nose cost the Red 15 yards and two plays later, a field goal attempt from the seven was wide to the right.

Unable to pass well (6 for 17 for 71 yards) against what had been advertised as a porous Cornell secondary, the Tigers ran well enough to win. Their total of 151 yards rushing was short of the spectacular, but it was nonetheless almost triple the combined efforts of Yale and Dartmouth on the ground against the massive Cornell defense.

So, the Ivy League's first trip it was effected, shared alike at Princeton, Hanover and Cambridge. But the pleasure was greater at Princeton, because Dartmouth had expected to win when the battling began; Harvard could all but taste an undefeated season after romping through its first six games; whereas the Tigers, almost everyone believed, would likely to finish better than fifth.

 Firm in the belief that it has all lost an equal shot with Columbia and Cornell at the Ivy League championship, Princeton's basketball team will open its 1966-67 season Thursday, December 1, in Dillon Gymnasium. Lafayette will provide the opposition.

Having gained more in potential than it lost in actuality, the Tiger quintet figures to improve on last year's 9-5, fourth place finish in the race. Bob Harlow and Don Rodenbach were the only letterman to graduate, nine others are back and they have been joined by Chris Thumfoerde, a 6-9 sophomore.

Thomfoerde averaged 25.2 points per game last winter and his total of 355 compares favorably with Bill Bradley's mark of 390 as a freshman. He is expected to be Princeton's answer to Columbia's seven-foot Dave Wood Ends Scoring. After Grob tallied again with 9.03 remaining in the third period, co-captain Tom Wood, running from the tailback position, scored his fourth TD of the year on a 13-yard run around end with 2:45 to go in the game. Coach Wood had switched his son from his usual end position to make room for senior John Cromwell, who fielded an all-senior squad during the final period.

As it had throughout the campaign, the Little Tiger defeated Princeton.

Newmark, who last winter led the Lions to the first double win over the Tigers in a decade or more.

The tall sophomore's presence will give Princeton ability to start three players, the "shorties" of whom is 6-6. Both Captains Ed Hammer and junior John Harlow measure that height, and it may be this trio which will start up front for Princeton.

Experienced reserve material is provided by lettermen Bill Koch and Al Adler, a pair of 6-3 seniors. Also back for a third year is 6-9 Robby Brown, who will spell Thorneforde at center. Under the circumstances, rebounding is not expected to be a Princeton problem.

Likely starters in the back court are three-year veteran Gary Wallers and Joe Heiler, a junior who came on strong last year after a fractured wrist delayed his appearance until January. Both are fine ball handlers and good outside shots. Heiler's 32.5 average trailing only Hammer's 32.8.

There is a good back court bench strength, too. Senior Larry Lucchino and Dave Lawryer are both lettermen, giving Coach Bill van Breda Kolff rare depth than Princeton basketball has ever known.

A trip to West Point to face Army on December 3 follows the Lafayette opener. The Tigers go to Villanova on December 6, play Colgate here December 9 and then make a trip to face Davidson in Charlotte, N. C. before Navy comes to town on the 17th.

PHS DEFEATS MADISON

For Fine 7-2 Record, Princeton High School scored once in every period against the Little Madison Township Saturday to post an easy 27-0 victory and wind up its season with a 7-2 record — Coach Dick Wood's best since taking over five years ago.

Fullback Ken Grob scored the first three PHS TDs to finish the season with 11. His first two were short plunges. His third, a 26-yard twisting dash up the middle was slightly tainted. At the start of the play, penalty flags were flying to signal an infraction and though the Madison defenders eased up somewhat, Ken didn't. The infraction was against Madison and the score stood.

Although the game proceeded to Princeton's liking, it was a dull affair for the onlookers. It was obvious from the start that Madison lacked an offense and was headed for its eighth defeat in nine starts. Later, as the game progressed the visiting Spartans displayed a propensity for fumbling which only served to make it easier for the Little Tigers. Recovering for PHS were Pete Starbuck, Rick Sisko, Nick Arcaro and Brandon Sicechini. Princeton's first drive of 39 yards was fashioned by the running of Grob and Jeff Bullock who advanced the ball 27 yards in four carries. Grob later scored from the two with 41 seconds left in the half on a drive set up by the passing of Tom Yoder. He hit Jay Springer with an 18-yarder and then combined with Stu fense—five shutouts in nine games—was tough and, in isolated instances, inspired. Defensive end Nick Ryan, was one. "It's a real line end," said defensive coach Tom Murray. "And he is only a junior which makes him even better."

Others who spent a considerable amount of time in the Madison backfield were Carmelo Mauro, Fred Fox, Tom Butterloss and Rich Volz.

Overall, the Little Tigers ran through Madison for 181 yards rushing, 97 punted up by Grob in 13 carries. Ironically, the day's most spectacular play engineered by the Blue and White failed to make the statistics.

On this play, Huston Webster fielded a Madison punt about midfield, retreated, picked up some blocks, eluded the remaining would-be tacklers and reeled down the sidelines to score. A penalty erased it.

Wood Reviews Year. Reviewing the season, Wood said that he was well pleased. "I didn't expect this many wins. I never expected the offense to show so much power," he said. PHS rushed up 258 points this season, averaging almost 30 a game. No PHS team in many years has been as productive. The defense, as has been expected, except for the first half against Hamilton in the opener, was good. "Of course, commented Wood, "that helped the offense. It gave us position and impetus. You've got to have both (offense and defense) to win."

And next year? The team will lose many key players, including offensive stars Grob and Jeff Bullock, who combined for 19 TDs, and defensive standouts like Volz, John McKeever, Mike Pomianowski and Rick Sisco, but about half of the varsity will return. Among them are Yoder, Ryan, Springer, Butterloss, Tom Taylor, Fred Fox, Bill Walstad, Matt Alexander—enough to make the Little Tigers a power again in '87. Two others that Wood singled out as cornerers were sophomore Nick Arcaro and Charles Madden, a line backer.

Seniors who played their last game are Craig Donatoni, Pete Starbuck, Keith Conover, Rick Sisco, Rob White, Brandon Sirechinski, John McKeever, Mike Pomianowski, Doug Griffin, John Cronwell, Tom Wood, Dave Moorme, Allen Downer, Stewart Bell, John Muehmkopf, Carmelo Mauro, Ken Grob, and Jeff Bullock.

Statistically speaking, Year end stats reveal that Grob was the scoring leader with 66 points followed by 48 for Bullock, who also threw three TD passes; Tom Yoder, who ran for one and threw eight scoring aeriels; and Keith Conover, who converted 26 extra points.

Huston Webster rushed for four scores, Wood scored three on passes and one rushing, while Volz and Bell each on a 41 average yards per carry mark. In passing, the team completed 41 out of 90 attempts Bullock completed six, had three picked off for 196 yards. Yoder completed 28, had 37 fali incomplete and saw five of his interceptions for a total of 598 yards. Among receivers Tom Wood started 12 for 242 yards, Bell 9 for 185, Springer 5 for 148 and Volz 4 for 127. The team average distance per punt was 34 yards.

HAROLD POORE HONORED Coach for 40 Years, Harold Poore, football coach at Pennington School, was honored at a Sports Award Banquet this week for completing his 40th year as head coach at Pennington and for his outstanding service and dedication.

Coach Poore received a gold football with the inscription, "Presented to Harold Poore in appreciation of his 40 years as football coach at the Pennington School from the Varsity football squad, November 20, 1986." In addition, a member of the school's trustees presented Coach Poore with a black walnut Pennington chair.

Five coaches from the New Jersey Independent School league accounted for the affair.

PDS WINS FINALE

For Perfect Season. After a scoreless first period, Princeton Day School went on to tally in the rest last week to blank visiting Morristown Prep, 26-0. It ended its football season with a 6-0 record.
In the second period, halfback John Claghorn capped sustained drives with TD runs of nine and six yards. Quarterback Bill Rigot accounted for the next two, scoring on a 10-yard sweep in the third quarter and on a three-yard plunge in the fourth.

Fullback Sandy Wandell gained 48 yards in six carries. In all, the Blue and White power game surpassed 100 yards rushing and 100 passing, the latter the handwork of Rigot's seven completions 10, 12 attempts. Freshman Jack Kilgore started his first game at the defensive middle guard spot and played as if he had been there all season, leading the team in tackles with 12.

The victory was PDS' 10th straight over the past two years. It blanked all but one of its opponents this fall as it outscored the opposition, 196 to 12. All of this, of course, was accomplished at the junior varsity level.

"We realize this was only JV competition," commented Coach Dan Barren. "If we hadn't run roughshod over everyone as we did, then we wouldn't have been ready for varsity competition." In '97, PDS will play an eight-game varsity schedule, leading off with Hun on September 20.

The drive for team scoring honors was a battle between Claghorn and Rigot, 11 touchdowns to 10, with Wandell next with four. Craig Page had three, and Rick Ross and Keith Bass one each.

UNDEFEATED PDS FOOTBALL TEAM: The Princeton Day School football team won all six of its games this fall, five of them shutouts, to make its ten straight over two years. Members of the squad, which this season ended its status on a junior varsity level only, are listed from left: Lew Bowers, John Claghorn, Rick Ross, co-captain Sandy Wandell, co-captain Bill Rigot, Craig Page, Ed Percell, Keith Bath, and Rich Balnes. Second row: Dan Barren, coach; Jon Vereen, Jack Kilgore, Chris Goble, Frank Andrews, Dave Venacka, Bob Ramsey, Chris Mellow, Lester Tibbals, assistant coach. Rear row: Erik Heegen, Don Young, Bob Wilms, Ed Cole, Ashby Adams, Bob O'Connor, Bob Peck and Crichton Adams. Absent Tom Spain. (Alan Richards Photo)

HUN BLANKS RIVAL

Top Pennington, 7-0. The Hun School defeated visiting Pennington Saturday, 7-0, when Mark Saori returned the opening kickoff of the second half 59 yards to the end zone. Although it was only the Red and Black's second win of the season, it was a particularly sweet one, coming off its longest time rival and preventing Pennington from evening the appropos between the two. The game was the finale for both schools. Hun, in winning its second straight, partially offset six consecutive opening losses. For the Red Raiders, it was their 40th year as head coach at Pennington, the longest of any coach. The team dropped them below the 500 level at 3-4.

Although 1966 was a disappointed that "it looks good for next year." Hun losses only five both schools. Hun, in winning its second straight, partially offset six consecutive opening losses. For the Red Raiders, it was their 40th year as head coach at Pennington, the longest of any coach. The team dropped them below the 500 level at 3-4.

Although 1966 was a disappointment, it was a sweet one, coming off its longest time rival and preventing Pennington from evening the ap-

A GEM OF A BIG HOUSE. Four bedrooms or a possible fifth
if you don't need the extra study. Two and one half baths, a paneled family room with sliding doors to the terrace, ultra modern kitchen. The slate entrance hall, living room, and dining room all have eye appeal and mean comfortable living to the young executive family. Add to all of this central air conditioning, a very low heating bill because of super insulation, and a lawn that has been maintained and specially cared
for. $37,000

PRETTY AS A PICTURE and cozy as it can be. Just two bed-the prettiest back garden, glassed in breezeway, and garage.

Such a pretty spot. $20,000

BEAUTIFULLY PUT TOGETHER IN EVERY WAY and a joy to live in. Inviting foyer, a most attractive living room with paneled fireplace wall, a dining area that's really big enough to be another room, glorious big windowed den that opens to terrace, kitchen with wood cabinets, large utility room, first floor powder room. Four corner bedrooms, very good tiled bath, lots of closets, attached garage, and fabulous, well planted grounds. Low $30's

BIG FAMILY NEWS. It's pure forethought to have included a children's dining room as well as a formal dining room.
Five good sized bedrooms are complimented by three full baths which nicely separate parents and girl and boy children.
The beautiful living room with fireplace is matched by an equally large family room. Anything else? How about central air conditioning, immediate occupancy, in-town. $53,000

TOWN HOUSE . . . here is that rarity so many house-hunters ask about — a beautifully restored old residence within walking distance of everything. Right on Stockton Street, in the Borough, it has wide entrance hall, living room with fireplace, dining room with fireplace, library, maid's room & bath, powder room . . . and a very modern kitchen with lots of cabinets, electric dishwasher, disposal and everything in perfect condition. Upstairs: another living room with fireplace, 4 bedrooms, 2 baths. Third floor: 4 bedrooms, 1 bath. Outdoor: a lovely flagstone terrace in the garden, and many huge old shade trees. This is a Victorian masterpiece, over a century old, which has been modernized and decorated in excellent taste. (Sole Agent) $85,000

LAWRENCEVILLE . . . elegant and spacious one-story home, freshly painted, on 2.7 acres of landscaped land. Central air-conditioning. On a quiet country road, just outside the Township. Large living room with double fireplace which also warms the family room. Study, separate dining room, 4 modern kitchens, 3 bedrooms, 2 baths. In addition, a newly added guest room wing, and powder room, which also serves as a family sitting room. Lovely terrace with view of your own woods. 2-car attached garage. (Sole Agent) $48,500

ESTATE . . . with 33 acres for privacy, superb old Colonial dwelling restored in excellent taste. First floor has very large living and dining rooms, paneled library, 2 guest rooms and bath, sun room, game room with bar, large kitchen and laundry, another bedroom and powder room. Upstairs: 3 more bedrooms, with air-conditioners, and 2 baths. Every bit of remodeling has been done with the finest materials and craftsmanship. Also, a vast masonry and tile indoor swimming pool wing which cost a fortune. Only 12 minutes from Princeton . . . This fine property offers an unusual opportunity to acquire one of the few showplaces available in our area. And the cost to you can be considerably reduced by retaining the landscaped estate which surrounds the buildings, and selling off the rest of the land. (Sole Agent) $159,500

ELM RIDGE . . . here is one of the most interesting and livable homes in this outstanding rural residential neighborhood of fine homes. On a wooded 1 1/2 acres, with a fall screen of foliage between home and street, this two-story brick and frame dwelling has 5 bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, foyer, large living room with fireplace, screened porch, separate dining room, 2-car kitchen, paneled family room, modern attached garage. (Sole Agent) $59,500

Many more homes in Princeton and vicinity in every price range.
